New directions for First Street?

Herlihy says city should save parks

PLEASANTON — The city council should remove the commercial general plan designation from Wayside and DeLucchi Parks and make a strong effort to insure their continuation as parks, Councilman William Herlihy said yesterday.

The city should confer with the owners of the two "parks", Southern Pacific, to obtain agreement for the general plan change, said Herlihy.

Herlihy acknowledged that the city could buy the property from S.P., but he prefers to continue the status quo, namely S.P. ownership of the land with citizens using it as parks.

Many newcomers to the city are under the impression both parks are owned by the city, but the truth is that volunteers developed them with the permission of the property owner, S.P. The railroad can cancel the agreement and take its property back on 30 days notice.

Herlihy will take up the issue Monday with his fellow council members. He is suggesting it as part of the council's examination of what will have to be done to the city as it gears its population down to the EO growth levels dictated by the Environmental Protection Agency.

The two parks are needed for downtown residents and businesses, said Herlihy "A good park system in a commercial or residenial area makes it an attractive place to live or have a business. It's an asset to our community," said Herlihy.

Commercial development on the two park sites would be a poor idea because First Street is too narrow to support it, he said. It also could stimulate a falling domino effect where the commercial development on the west side of First Street would generate more on the east side, contributing to the destruction of old homes which owners have been restoring, he said.

Wayside Park, with DeLucchi Park in the background beyond the flagpole, has figured in two important actions. Southern Pacific settled with the Harris Estate to gain clear title over the land. Councilman William Herlihy wants to remove the commercial general plan designation from the parks to insure they will remain open space. Meanwhile, former Mayor Robert Pearson will protest the moving of Presbyterian Community Church, one block away from these parks.

SP settles claim on First Street

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — Southern Pacific Transportation Co. retains all property rights to Wayside and Delucchi Parks in downtown Pleasanton under terms of an agreement worked out with attorney S. Victor Wagler.

But the railroad giant must pay a total $200,000 to Wagler and Neal Harris and heirs of the Myron Harris, May Morris and Clayton L. Morris estates.

All five causes of action in the two year old legal fight went against the SP.

Wagler, a former Alameda County Superior Court Judge, is awarded $66,666.66. An additional $33,333.34 goes to each of the three estates, with another $33,333.32 to Neal Harris.

Half the money must be paid now, with the balance paid over a four year period with 7¾ percent interest.

Southern Pacific officials could not comment on any plans the firm may have for the city's only two downtown parks.

Wayside and Delucchi parks were built by volunteer labor of the city's police and fire departments and Lions Club.

SP also will retain possession of the 100 - year - old railroad station on Neal Street.

The station house has been observed closely by city officials since the Pleasanton Glass Co., its present occupant, told officials it would be moving.

Rumors of a restaurant in the historic depot have flourished, but SP spokesmen say they have had inquiries from diverse businesses interested in the site.

The park land is zoned for small retail businesses and could become part of a business package that would use the depot as its hub.

MSD to hire demographer

With the intent of getting a better line on the future, the Murray School District has tentative plans to hire a demographer— someone skilled in taking the input provided by an agency and, in effect, recommending and/or predicting what to do in the future.

Allan Richards, an Orinda resident and reportedly an insurance company officer, will meet with Superintendent Donald Williams Thursday night in the district offices in Dublin to discuss the district's situation. Williams said Tuesday that, pending final action by the board, Richards may be hired to perform a study that would take approximately one month's time.

Richards was originally recommended by Ellen Nelson, principal at Frederiksen School, and is an acquaintance of Phil Chubb, district business manager.

The prospective hiring of a demographer comes as a Citizens Advisory Committee is moving into the study of seventh - eighth grade housing options and curriculum. The panel includes one resident of each school community and a district administrator. Their duties are to provide input, study the options and come up with suggestions and/or recommendations to the board by mid-June.

Whether a demographer or anyone of similar expertise would have a link with the committee was not mentioned by Williams yesterday.

Williams said Richards had done some demographic studies for the Orinda School District and "his predictions had proven very good."

The Citizens Advisory Committee will hold its third meeting tonight at Frederiksen School, 7243 Tamarack Dr., Dublin, at 7:30.

At a regular board session Monday, trustees revealed they have decided to change auditing firms.

Bray and Burke have audited Murray books over the past four years.

The issue Monday was whether discussion of various auditing firms should be done in open or personnel session.

Both Williams and Chubb opined that discussion of selecting a new firm should be done in closed session. Williams said he would get an opinion from district legal counsel Keith Breon.

The idea of the district severing its relations with Bray and Burke originated with trustee Bob Foster and apparently took shape during Williams' two-months absence because of illness.

Williams admitted that the subject came forth primarily because of Bray and Burke having Fremont Unified School District as a client at the time of the Harold Alameda finances flap.

The district hopes to contract a new auditing firm in two to three weeks.

In other business Monday night, trustees voted 3-1-1 to endorse the Amador Valley Joint School District revenue increase measure.

Trustee Linda Jeffery opposed an endorsement of the measure while Ann Henderson abstained from voting.

Williams said he had some updated information on the Dolan site funding situation but did not elaborate. A $1 million bond issue to build an intermediate grade school on the site was rejected by the electorate in March.

Robert Kroetch, newly - elected president of the Murray Teachers Association, urged the board to support passage of SB 1641, a school financing bill. He said it could add $61.20 to the $66 the district is currently getting (per pupil). The bill passed the State Senate by a 30 to 1 vote last week.

A proposed meeting of the Murray and Valley Community Services District boards was held in abeyance pending agreement on a date.

Pearson vows appeal on church

PLEASANTON — The planning commission's decision to allow Presbyterian Community Church to move its 100 year old church to Mirador Drive will be appealed to the city council.

Former Mayor Robert Pearson told The Times yesterday that he and others intend to make the appeal of the 4-1 planning commission decision

"We'll appeal it, though we haven't decided the details," said Pearson. He said that Planning Commissioner Walt Wood's vote against the move on the basis of an incompatible design of the New England Protestant church with the Spanish architecture buildings and ranch style homes surrounding it is one good reason for an appeal.

"But it goes deeper than that," said Pearson "The issue is whether we have a valid heritage overlay ordinance. If we don't use that ordinance in the case of this church, we never will be able to use it," said Pearson.

The heritage overlay ordinance would require the church to get a special permit from the plannning commission to move the church, said Pearson. The commission could reject the move on grounds that the old church belongs on its historic site at Second and Neal Streets, he said.

"There never will be a building more historic which would be affected by the historical overlay district," said Pearson. "If the city doesn't invoke the ordinance for the church, any future property owner could cite that as a precedent if the council wanted to invoke it to stop moving or demolition of his building."

"Also the Presbyterians have been active in local politics historically. They have three members on the city council. If they don't invoke the ordinance on this one, but do on a later one, it could come back to haunt them.

"That's not to prejudge how they would vote on the church. Two of the three Presbyterian council members (William Herlihy and Frank Brandes) voted against moving the church when the congregation took the vote," said Pearson.

The historical overlay district ordinance was passed by the city council 4-0 (Ed Kinney absent) in 1973 when Pearson was on the council. But the council didn't fill the membership of the five person committee which would designate the historical buildings which would be governed by the ordinance.

"It's a mistake that we didn't appoint the committee then," said Pearson.

What about the private property rights of the church? It's their building, why can't they move it?

"Anyone who had a zoning issue go against them made that charge," said Pearson. "No one owns property free and clear of zoning regulations. I have to have a permit to change the eave on the outside of my house or to add a room to it. That's an infringement on my supposed property rights.

"That's what communities and civilizations are all about. You give up certain freedoms when you live next door to your fellow man. That's what zoning is all about," said Pearson. "In fact, the church admitted that when it applied for the conditional use permit for Mirador Drive."

"All the years I've lived here, I've heard the rhetoric about saving downtown Pleasanton. I don't see how anyone could advocate saving the downtown tax base with redevelopment and then vote for moving the church. You have to be consistent and keep the amenities that are in the downtown.

"If the moving of a (heritage) tree is a community matter, so is the moving of that church," said Pearson.

Zone 7 hopeful

Renter says he's 'hep' to water woes

This is the last in a series of articles on eight candidates for the Zone 7, Alameda County Flood Control and Water Conservation District, Board of Directors.

Paul Tull says he's been "so doggone nosey in all fields since I was knee-high to a grasshopper" that he can "bring more to the Zone 7 board than has ever been there before."

And Tull's candidacy is unique in at least one regard: he is the first non - property holder to seek election to the Zone 7 board, overturning a district requirement that candidates own real property in the zone.

The 58-year - old medically retired historian for the American Taxpayers Union kept the county counsel and registrar's offices busy for a few weeks undoing the constitutional tangle Tull had exposed.

Now with his name appearing first on the June 8 ballot, Tull is proud enough to call himself "the candidate for Zone 7 who paved the way for renters to run for, and hold, public office."

Tull also has the distinction of being the only candidate who will neither solicit nor accept campaign contributions. Thus he says he can be responsible to the entire valley, not having been "bought by any power block."

Tull's campaign slogan is "Don't pollute our water with politics." He thinks the Zone 7 board should assume a lead role in introducing new and better methods of water purification.

"Zone 7 has to take the lead — get off their bottoms and do something," Tull said. He believes the zone should get involved in new "new and/or better ways to process sewage and trash."

And he adds that if no cooperation exists between existing agencies, the zone is mandated by law to go in and take over.

Tull said he is currently in the process of obtaining a patent to make possible — and profitable — total refuse recovery.

He is developing the system to sell to each treatment plant in the valley and would like to promote the system as a member of the zone board. But if a conflict of interest arises, Tull said he would withdraw from the board in order to continue promoting his new system.

Tull would also like to see chlorine eliminated from the water mreatment process. Engineered by "overbuilding the filter beds" 25 per cent.

The super sewer effluent disposal system, Tull believes, will be "functionally passe" in a few years. He opposes the pipeline because he sees the effluent as a future resource.

"There are better methods already on the boards to handle this problem," Tull said. "We should try to hold off two years until one of these systems is in order."

Zone 7 directors lied to the public, Tull charged, when they lobbied for passage of Project II to build the Del Valle Water Treatment Plant. "I oppose the zone's rate increase," Tull said, "because the bonds should be paid off by water connection fees."

Tull is getting an education along the campaign trail. "I'm getting real hep on many things, shall we say," Tull said with a grin. He experience includes work as a master pattern maker, electronics technician, tool and die maker, operator and owner of small businesses, beekeeper and "politician watcher."

And Tull explains that he has "so much knowledge in so many fields, or just where to obtain that knowledge, that there is very little that will pass me by" as a member of the Zone 7 board.

Even if he is not elected, Tull promises he'll continue to attend zone meetings and "hassle them" on water issues "they way I did the Livermore City Council for years.

Win or lose, Tull is delighted with the quest for office.

Woman arrested for suspicion of drug possession

LIVERMORE — A woman attempting to close the driver's side door to her van while parked on the Livermore Avenue turnoff of Interstate 580 was arrested after a search of the vehicle uncovered a quantity of suspected marijuana and methamphetamines.

Dorothy Marlene Bozek, 29, of Joaquin Drive in San Ramon was booked into Livermore city jail on suspicion of possessing dangerous drugs.

Officer Charles Bell spotted the van parked on the off-ramp about 11 a.m. Sunday. Bozek told him the van's door had been broken by the wind while driving down from Sacramento and she couldn't get it closed.

Bell offered to help but then noticed an odeor of alcohol and saw Bozek was unsteady on her feet. He searched the van and found an empty beer can, approximately one ounce of suspected marijuana, and 20-30 tablets of what chemical tests tentatively identified as methamphetamin.

While being transported to jail, she fainted and was rushed to Valley Memorial Hospital. She was treated and released, and later booked.

Man arrested for interfering with police

LIVERMORE — A 21-year-old San Leandro man was arrested after allegedly interfering with police attempts to clear the Kinney's Parking lot of a crowd late Saturday.

James Louis McNaughton of San Leandro booked and later cited and released for suspicion of interfering with officers in the performance of their duty.

Officer Brian Woodard used his patrol car's public address speaker to order a crowd of mostly juveniles to disperse from the Kinney shoe store parking lot at First Street and Railroad Avenue.

The crowd failed to respond, so Woodard parked his car in the lot and began citing each car. One man, later identified as McNaughton, asked Woodard to move his car so he could depart. Woodard told the man he was given ample time to move, and could leave after he was given a citation.

McNaughton allegedly began shouting obscenties, saying he had been harassed enough. After repeated warnings to shut up, Woodard arrested the suspect and transported him to Livermore city jail, where he was booked.

McNaughton was released after he was issued a citation.

Burglars take bike, tapes from garage

LIVERMORE — Burglars entered a garage to a Cabrillo Avenue home and took $215 in tapes and a 10-speed bicycle, police reported yesterday.

Burglars apparently entered the garage through an open front door and took a Murray brand 10-speed and 23 pre-recorded tapes in a brown case.

There are no suspects in the case.

Livermore's 80-cent tax coming

LIVERMORE — Most city businesses' gross receipts for 1975 will be taxed at 80 cents per $1,000 on a straight line basis under the revised business license tax ordinance formally adopted by the city council Monday night.

City Finance Director George Nolan this week is designing a form to be mailed, probably in late June, to all those who pay a business license tax. The form will reflect the new rates for which last year's gross business receipts will be taxed.

The second reading and adoption of the ordinance Monday night followed months of study by an official joint City Council - Chamber of Commerce committee and weeks of discussion of proposed changes by an ad hoc chamber group.

The first reading of the ordinance was held May 10 and approved 3-1, Dale Turner dissenting and Glen Dahlbacka absent. The second reading May 17 was approved 4-0, Turner absent.

(Turner told The Times he would have voted against the ordinance on the second reading for the same reasons that dictated his vote on the first reading. The ordinance that has been in effect is "workable," he explained, because it provides income to the city. He also noted it provided a natural escalation rate through increased sales and inflation.

"We should stop looking to existing merchants to pay the way — we should try to attract new businesses to provide increased business license tax income," Turner stated.)

Under the revised ordinance that will be in effect for the upcoming fiscal year, all retail, wholesale, manufacturing, administrative headquarters, contractors, utilities and entertainment will be taxed at a rate of 80 cents per $1,000 gross.

Rentals of commercial properties and residential properties (more than two units) will be taxed at a rate of $1.20 per $1,000 gross; professional, semi-professional and business services, $1.60 per $1,000, and savings and loan institutions, $2.40 per $1,000.

A separate category was created for automotive dealers and grocery stores — whose representatives effectively argued to the council they fell into a special high gross-low profit category — at a tax rate of 50 cents per $1,000 gross.

All tax rates will be applied on a straight line basis and the minimum tax rate will be doubled from $20 to $40.

The adopted ordinance also reflects the contested provision that PG&E and other utilities pay both franchise fees as well as a business license tax but backs off on taxing out-of-town physicians who practice regularly at Valley Memorial Hospital.

Instead, the council asked that the physicians assure the city in writing annually that those earnings realized in Livermore are included in the gross income they report to the city in which their main office is located.

The new ordinance also includes "grants of forgiveness" to act as incentives for commerce and industry to locate in Livemrmore.

The incentives allow a commercial establishment whose gross exceeds $1 million the first year a 75 per cent reduction of its first year's business license taxes. Another incentive allows an industrial or manufacturing concern that employes more than 10 full-time employes, at least ⅔ of whom are valley residents, a waiver of the first year's business license taxes.

Don't look to capitol—Newlin

"The real answer is the source of funds at the legislative level, and not at the local level," keynoted Superintendent Bruce Newlin in outlining what he believes is the necessity of the Amador and Pleasanton school district voters passing revenue increase measures June 8 as a stop-gap action.

Speaking to a small audience of Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce members Tuesday, Newlin said two finance bills now in the hopper "will probably windup in a conference committee with a vote of nonconcurrence.

And with the legislature adopting a "wait - and - see" stance on Serrano - Priest, Newlin said the districts' financial hopes now rest with the local citizenry.

Newlin, as have an army of school administrators throughout the state, laid the blame for financial woes of school districts at the door of Senate Bill 90— "the unrealistic inflation factor"— and the ever-increasing cost of everything from supplies to teacher supplies.

"We've cut back on class materials by at least 25 per cent, reduced transportation and have made food services self sufficient," Newlin said. "And the instrumental music program at the elementary level has been significantly reduced."

Newlin, with Amador and Pleasanton trustees Charles Beazley, Al Dutchover and Betty Nostrand lending support, said enrollment in the Pleasanton district has leveled off while it is projected to increase every so-slightly in the Amador Joint High School District.

The Amador district, which includes both Pleasanton and Dublin, is asking for an increase of 62.7 cents per $100 assessed valuation over a three year period. The current district tax rate is $2.69.

Pleasanton is asking an 81.8 cent hike over a two year period. The present rate is $3.25.

In the high school district, the increase, based on an estimated average daily attendance (ada) of 5,263, will raise $478,933. In the elementary district, with an estimated average daily attendance (ada) of 5,291, the increase will be $422,274.

The revenue increase campaign committees of the two districts have scheduled informational meetings through the end of the month.

Tonight, speakers will make presentations at the Cronin School PTA (7:30 p.m., Wayne Barnes and Bob Hagler); Business and Professional Women's Club (8 p.m., Hap's Restaurant); Lydiksen School PTA (8 p.m., Bob Hagler), and Pleasanton Jaycees (8:15 p.m.).

Carl Krause, assistant superintendent for personnel, will speak to the Pleasanton Rotary Club at 12 noon Thursday.

County employes' demonstration

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — More than 200 county employes screaming "Jobs not jails" burst into the Board of Supervisors meeting yesterday after an angry, lunch hour march around the County Administration Building.

The employes — members of the Service Employes Union — are threatening to strike if the county does not negotiate on their demands for a 10 per cent pay hike and increased fringe benefits.

The noisey, noon time demonstration drew support and spectators with some county observers saying the union will walk out if their demands aren't met.

"I've been watching them (union members) for 13 years," said an observer who is not a member of the union. "They're stronger than before. I think they'll go this time."

The demonstrators marched into the board chambers just as acting chairman Tom Bates of Oakland gaveled the meeting to a close. The board has met in executive session three times since last Friday ostensibly to discuss "personnel."

The county must adopt its salary ordinance by tomorrow and union members will vote on any package Sunday.

Representatives of SEIU Locals 250, 535 and 616, which represent nearly 6,000 county employes, said they first demanded a 12 per cent pay raise last month and that county negotiator John W. Marshall countered last week with two per cent.

He also has demanded a return to the 40 hour work week given up by employes 25 years ago if any pay raise of more than two per cent is granted, union officials said.

A $7 per month increase in the county's health plan coverage offered by Marshall will not cover anticipated rate increases, union spokesmen add.

The unions claim the county is clouding the issue by releasing erroneous "average pay scales" of some $14,000 per year for their employes. That figure covers high paid management, they say.

The union's membership includes clerks, nurses and hospital and welfare workers.

VA hospital gets voluntary accredit

LIVERMORE — Livermore Veteran Administration Hospital has been accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH).

John D. Porterfield, M.D., Director of the JCAH said in a letter to the Livermore Hospital, "The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals commends your hospital for striving to deliver the optimum in health care to the community."

Dr. Porterfield lauded the VA Hospital for participating in the voluntary accreditation process, calling it "an expression of a professionally motivated commitment to deliver a high quality of patient care."

Accreditation is awarded to hospitals that are found to be in substantial compliance with the JCAH's standards for patient care.

Strike winds down, four cabbies resign

LIVERMORE — Tri-Valley Cab Co. drivers protesting working conditions ended their four - day - old wildcat walk-out yesterday by formally quitting but vowed "we are by no means finished."

Former lead driver Janet Menan issued a brief statement announcing the end of picketing, but left open the possibility of further action against the cab company by protesting drivers.

"We the Tri-Valley Cab. Co. strikers feel we have accomplished what we set out to do, inasmuch as the cabs have been made safe for our customers. The directors have, in so many words, stated that the cabs have always been safe and that any problems were the fault of the drivers.

"We can prove, if need be, that our cabs could never have met the safety codes. However, since the cabs were inspected by the Livermore police department for safety on Monday, May 17 and approved, we will now lay down our signs. We'll give up our picketing but we are by no means finished."

Menan would not comment on what further actions the drivers would take, but said present plans did not include legal action. Menan said she had picked up her paycheck the night before, and indicated that three other drivers would follow suit today.

Tri-Valley Cab Co. director Dave Rezendes was unaware of the strike's end when contacted at 6 p.m. yesterday, but expressed relief that the picketing was over.

"I'm sorry there have been difficulties in the past, but if they (protesting drivers) had approached the directors and explained the problem, I'm sure things would have worked out differently."

One new driver had "definitely been hired" as of yesterday, Rezendes said, and interviews for three other positions created by the mass resignation would continue until the jobs are filled.

Rezendes rejected the strikers' main argument, saying, "If the cabs were in such terrible shape, we would have had to create a minor miracle to repair them in that amount of time."

Is the issure settled? "On our end, I suppose. But I have no idea what the (protesting drivers) are planning in the future."

Foreign kids moving right in

Ten foreign teenagers will be coming to the Valley this summer to live with local families and attend school

Youth for Understanding, largest of the many student exchange programs, is sending the students to Dublin, Pleasanton and Livermore. They are not supposed to have guest status in their American homes, but are expected to assume the same duties and privileges as other children in the family. The American hosts provide food and housing while students pay for their other personal expenses.

According to Eleanor Mote Youth for Understanding representative for the Valley, "Student exchange by its very name focuses on the student and the excitement and value of the experience for the student, yet thousands of letters from host families over years have told us that being a host family is an unforgettable and lasting adventure for the whole family."

Mrs. Mote is still looking for families to host the students who are arriving in June. She may bse contacted at 846-5324 for details.

Nuclear fears and Prop. 15

In the great confusion of argument that has preceded Californians' vote on "The Nuclear Initiative," there is one point on which we might all agree: That question does not lend itself to initiative action, and Proposition 15 will fail if only because it is a mystery even greater than the uncertainties of nuclear energy.

We have read the impassioned pleas in favor of Prop. 15; we have studied the argument offered in rebuttal. Like you, we are frightened by all this talk of a nuclear Armageddon. And, like most thoughtful Californians, we are concerned about hasty action that might lead to a new energy crisis, or at least a new aggravation of our polluted atmosphere.

We are threatened by all this, and more, if we vote this way or that on Prop. 15. It shapes up as the greatest single decision confronting California in this century.

And that is one reason it should not have come to us as an initiative action, framed by those caught up in one view of this argument.

The legislative system is never perfect, never even perfectly motivated. But at least, and in this state, it is a vital part of the "checks and balances" through which virtually all laws must pass before they can be intelligently enforced. We have learned from Prop. 9 — "the political disclosure initiative" — that even the best - intended law, when prepared by one side of the question, can become a judicial headache, and a costly nuisance.

The legitimate concern for "adequate controls on nuclear power" is a national and even a global issue. We are not well served by boiling such a complex question down to the state level, encumbered by language that looks to "adequate insurance" and "proper evacuation routes."

Even on the one question of energy development and energy conservation, Californians are entitled to the full legislative process before any long - term program is evolved.

Prop. 15 is bad because it wants to over simplify the answer, while loading us down with complex questions. The people do not understand it; therefore the people should reject it. And that is why this newspaper will recommend a "No" vote on Prop. 15 on the June ballot.

PROP. 15

Shame, shame

Editor, The Times:

H.H. Elliott's letter of May 12 is worthy of comment only because it hits a new low in ugliness.

Most opponents of proposition 15 have, while exercising their right to express their opinion on the issue, refrained from personal attacks on those who differ with them.

Elliott not only has a scurrilous and obscene attitude toward we proponents of proposition 15 but has had the unmitigated, self-righteous arrogance to ask that they be publicly aired.

To relate the deep concern which so many, all over the country and throughout the free world have expressed to Nazi techniques and attitudes is a cruel and ignorant affront to the entire democratic process. Deep shame on him and on you for publishing such an obscenity.

If there is any demonstration of the "big lie" anywhere in the nuclear issue it has certainly come only from the vested interest groups and those individuals who assuage their guilt over Hiroshima by blindly believing, hoping that there is a viable peaceful use of the atom to justify its use in war.

As to the lack of facts which Mr. Elliott infers in the pro proposition 15 arguments, I challenge him to refute the waste leakage and radioactive contamination association with Hanford and Maxey Flats; to refute the Brown's Ferry incident; to refute the near cataclysm at Fermi No. 1 near Detroit; to refute the overloading of the spent fuel ponds at most reactor sites; to refute the low efficiency rates for nuclear plants nationwide, due to failure after failure in one system or another; ...

Mr. Elliott should take his vast ignorance to school, his disabling paranoia to a psychiatrist and his arrogance and cruelty to church.

He may, if he chooses to be a part of the process, also take his One vote to the polls and, as we all must do, live with the outcome, whatever it may be.

He has demeaned our process and himself. Shame, shame, shame.

Too many risks

Editor, The Times:

We have a deep concern about the safety of nuclear power. This letter quotes experts in atomic energy and geology to enlighten the public on some of the issues involved.

George L. Weil, former Atomic Energy Commission director states, "Today's nuclear power plant projects ... are too many, too large, too soon, too inefficient. In short they offer too many risks."

The Diablo Canyon plant reactor site has been built only 3 miles from a fault along the Pacific Ocean floor. Regarding this the following is quoted from a report written by Adam Honea, lecturer in geology at Humboldt State University, Rene Engel who holds degrees in geology and chemical engineering from Cal Tech, Pierre St. Armand of Naval Weapons at China Lake, Thomas Collins — a U.S. Forest Service geologist at Eureka, and Katherine Peing, a geologist with the experimental geochemistry branch of the U.S. Geological Survey at Menlo Park. "Diablo Canyon plant under construction (almost completed) near San Luis Obispo might be vulnerable to an earthquake in the Hosgri-San Simeon fault system and a quake could occur along this fault system that might be greater by 30 times than the plant was built to withstand!"

Carl Hocevar, former Atomic Energy Commission safety specialist states, "In spite of the soothing reassurances that the AEC gives to the uninformed and misled public, unresolved questions about nuclear power plant safety are so grave the U.S. should consider a complete halt in construction while we see if these serious questions can somehow be resolved."

A "Yes" vote on Proposition 15 will keep public the progress that is being made by the utilities to insure the safety of their nuclear power plants. The right to decide what you consider to be safe living conditions belongs to you and not just those involved in the big business of nuclear industry.

Sue for smog

We see where the South Lake Tahoe city council is preparing to take legal action against Sacramento and the San Francisco Bay Area in order to "stop the flow of polluted air" from those urban centers into that mountain hamlet.

South Lake Tahoe is asking the California attorney general to prepare the action which would, if successful, compel those larger cities to "cease and desist" their exportation of dirty air.

This newspaper has long advocated a similar posture from our Valley governments. We have recited the millions of dollars in cost being forced onto our taxpayers because the City of Fremont contends we upstream residents are "degrading" Alameda Creek which Fremont now uses as an open pipe line to carry its imported domestic water.

The state has long held that upstream properties have no right to pollute a stream to the detriment of downstream residents.

A similar ruling is past due in the matter of air pollution.

Those of us who must suffer the consequence of "upwind polluters" free to contaminate the air which must inevitably flow downwind into this basin have been far too patient.

"You have the inverted air basin, and so you get everybody else's polluted air," is the official explanation. That is a simplistic response which would never hold up in litigation over water pollution. Neither should it survive any serious challenge in a court of law.

South Lake Tahoe is one community that is prepared to take air polluters into court. We would hope Livermore, Pleasanton, Dublin and San Ramon would join in that action, and thereby gain a historic ruling in the matter of upwind polluters, and downwind sufferers.

Letters to the Times

Not Gelderman

Editor, The Times:

In reply to the letter that appeared in the Valley Times by Virginia Loewe ... I am not now, nor have I ever been "Gelderman's spokesman." If you will check the record, Virginia, you will find that at every public meeting I have spoken before ... I have spoken for the Los Positas ranchers. The group I represent are not land speculators or developers. They are a fine group of people and in most cases, second generation land owners. They are fighting to retain their property rights.

I support John Murphy because he is a champion of the property owners rights. ... John Murphy's principle residence has never been in Nevada County. He has been a life long resident of Pleasanton. While owning the property in Nevada County he maintained an apartment in Pleasanton, his driver's license address was Pleasanton and his daughter went to school here ...

As to Valerie's alleged violations, I at no time referred to Proposition 9. My reference was to the Waxman Dymally act. That act clearly states "that every campaign letter, poster or brochure must bear upon it's face the name and address of the printer and publisher." In plain old English, Virginia, Who did the work on it and who is responsible for it? ...

Speaking of campaign violations Virginia, Who is supposed to be getting property owner permission for posting Valerie Raymond campaign signs?

I can give you at least two dozen examples where her campaign signs have been placed without permission. I know of some cases where your volunteers were told specifically not to post her signs and they went ahead anyway. I know of some cases where the property owners have removed the signs only to discover they were back again the next day. Is this how Valerie defends property rights? Well you can brag about your "volunteers," but what else can you expect from a bunch of amatuers.

Letters, politics

As another election approaches, a brief review of this newspaper's policy governing "election coverage" might be helpful.

The Times conducts in - depth interviews with all listed candidates for local office where any kind of challenge seems likely. Our own recommendations to the voters are based largely on those interviews, and in discussion with our own staff. We seek no outside help on this responsibility.

We assign reporters to review available material and expertise for ballot items that seem of widespread interest to our readers; current examples are all school tax issues, and those state initiatives dealing with nuclear energy and community college financing.

In addition, we invite as much reader participation in the issues and the candidates as space will allow. We welcome "Letters to the Editor" on these ballot items, but we must work within these guidelines: Letters are carried on the Editorial Page on a space - available basis; First consideration is given the candidates themselves, and thereafter to those who have not previously written us during that month; Letters of unusual length may have to be edited to conform to space; All letters must be signed and state the town of residence, although that name will be withheld if the reader offers a valid request.

Candidates and issues are also covered as regular news beats, according to reader interest in statements or news releases. Our "Campaign '76" column is designed to handle all those announcements that might otherwise not be covered.

Hindsight/Foresight

Tax 'foundation'

Organization for the Amador and Pleasanton revenue increase election campaigns is deserving of mention.

The foundation work being done by school district staff and administrators Carl Krause, Neil Sweeney, Doug Rose and Bruce Newlin will ultimately come back in the form of more "yes" votes for the twin tax measures.

The organizational structure and data worked up could serve as a model to all school districts faced with passing tax measures or bond issues.

But the ultimate tests will come in how well the respective revenue increase elections committees answer the crucial question of need ... and where "adjustments" will have to be made if the measures fail.

The latter is a sensitive area and demanding of tact on the part of revenue increase spokespersons. For, as school district leaders have already noted, to tell an audience that if a measure doesn't pass cuts will have to be made in one area or another can be interpreted as a threat.

But, on the other hand, speakers cannot afford to bypass discussion on the prospect of a "no" vote. While they cannot list specific areas that might be cut the speakers can provide background on what has occurred in the past — such as the districts' 20 per cent cuts of some services a year ago (including the curtailing of bus service — some of which was restored — and the attempt to drop freshmen sports).

From this writer's standpoint, I can think of several areas that could be adjusted if the tax hikes were not approved.

Certainly the general area of athletics deserves review, as does some auxiliary services such as summer school (some overlap with city recreation offerings), adult education, and busing.

I believe the areas that are most critical to the greatest number of children CANNOT afford to be cut — that would include teachers' salaries (good teachers make good programs), classified salaries and classroom supplies (texts and supplementary teaching materials).

At this point in the campaign, after brief reviews of the fact sheets handed out by the district and attendance at a couple revenue increase committee meetings, I see little justification for a "yes" vote.

However, as we get around to the many informational programs scheduled in the next two weeks and hear the give and take between speakers and club members, that impromptu and unofficial reaction could change.

There has been an indication that revenue increase backers will turn-in supportive statements to the valley media in the weeks to come The Times has made it clear it intends on striking a balance in coverage, reporting both sides of the coin before, during and after any endorsements.

Consumer's turn

Back in the days of the great muckraking writers like Frank Norris and Upton Sinclair, industry was running roughshod over the consumer with poor products and poor business practices. After these writers documented those abuses, there was a wave of public protest and the result was state and federal regulatory commissions like the Food and Drug Administration, the Interstate Commerce Commission and the various state public utilities commissions.

But the struggle between industry and consumers has continued since those early days of this century. The battle still continues on the California Public Utilities Commisision, with a board majority still in favor of the utilities industry.

The pattern is for a utility to come in for a big rate increase, the increase is granted, and a consumer group sues the utility. It has to go to court to get justice since it can't get any decent regulation from the PUC.

The best recent example of this was the PUC's vote last week endorsing a "No" vote on Proposition 15, the nuclear powerplant initiative. The public should expect its servants to be neutral on this issue. It is intensely political and there are important arguments on both sides.

But the PUC, with no hesitation at all from its majority, came down squarely on the side of the nuclear power industry. The two commissioners who abstained apparently agreed it is none of the board's business. They're right, of course, and since they are both appointees of Governor Jerry Brown, there is hope that the board majority will tilt at the next Brown appointment away from the heavy influence of industry and toward the best interests of the consumer.

Berry's World

"If the Russians keep frustrating us at the SALT talks, we may just have to retaliate by introducing them to golf!"

round the town

"What do you newspaper people do with your time when you're not busy stirring up trouble?"

That seems a reasonable question. Reasonable or not, it is asked often enough to warrant some response.

I will overlook that slur on the quality of journalism and assume that "stirring up trouble" implies all those other people. But not us, surely.

There was a time when I was apt to raise a little hell now and then. Civic, fraternal or political. It was in the salad of my Valley servitude. The lady of our house likes to remind me that, in the year of our betrothal, I was president of three organizations and a mover in two others. "But now you have the satisfaction of knowing that is all behind me," I assure her.

Now and then, I have to also reassure myself. The temptation to return to active service is ever present ... "Why don't you join the..." ... "Have you ever thought of running for..." Us Hell Raisers Emeritus are never far from the barn.

Frankly, it is enough just to keep watch over them that like to get involved. They are a busy bunch, let me assure you. Take these upcoming elections.

I have personally interviewed all seven candidates for the Zone 7 Water Board, and all four (never could find the fifth) who aspire to the First District Supervisorial post. Still to come are a whole bunch who seek the Contra Costa supervisorial office that includes San Ramon Valley; challengers to our incumbent Congressional and State Assembly reps; a couple of school tax ballot items; and a few hundred folk who will take exception to this newspaper's stand on any of the above.

I want to assure you voters that there are many fine candidates and supporters for the aforementioned ballot entries. There are also some nuts, pure and simple. What they don't know about the office they seek would fill a very large book. Sometimes I think Democracy is beyond salvaging.

"I am running for the office in order to convince the board they should buy my patented process as the answer to their problems," one such candidate assured me. "But doesn't that suggest a serious conflict of interest?" he was asked. "Of course," he acknowledged, "but the minute that conflict arises I will resign from the board." I'll let you figure that one out.

Some of those candidates are so busy, so far from the local scene, that they can't afford to spend daytime hours being interviewed by the press "Would 7 a.m. be all right?" asks one. "Could I come at noon ... and bring my lunch?" pleads another.

(I have been waiting for the luscious blond candidate who insists on being interviewed at her home, over a glass of wine, whilst "wearing something comfortable." But the nearest I came on that score was a fat old gal who once insisted I interview her at the Wagon Wheel bar. I got stuck for the drinks.)

In truth, not all of the newspaper person's life is bound up in such servitude. There are pleasures in this life, and that's for sure. A few freebies, even.

Just this month I have been invited to tour "Africa USA." (I hate animals.) I shared an A's ball game with a bunch of our newspaper carriers. (They ordered and ate throughout the game.) And I was on the guest list for the big Oakland flower show. (Had to decline. Hayfever.)

There was also that "preview opening" for "La Villa" ... a new restaurant that is designed to take you right out of this world, while never leaving St. John Street in Pleasanton. "A dining experience," our hosts promised. It was all of that. Two hours of munching. Seven courses. The hardest part is leaving, or even trying to stand up.

Also not recommended for a night when championship basketball is on the tube. The lady of the house and I had a terrible fight over that conflict.

Ditto for three wedding receptions (I managed one), two funerals and an Oakland Symphony engagement she had "completely overlooked." Another two - hour session, seated.

"I am an active person," I try to convince her. "I need to move about, on golf courses, and places like that." Everything she likes involves sitting, or standing in one place for painfully long periods. (There is one thing we occasionaly share that does not involve sitting, or standing, or even walking around. But May has been too busy for that.)

There has, in truth, been very little time for stirring up trouble. Of any kind. There's a lot more to newspapering than Robert Redford making like he's Dustin Hoffman.

For Wednesday, May 19, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) From time to time you tend to be overly generous with persons who really don't merit it. You later regret it. You may repeat your pattern today.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Something opportune might get past you because you don't care to pursue it properly. You're only hurting yourself if you're lethargic today.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your friends will not find you too much fun today, if you exaggerate or boast. It's better to understate your case.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't be liberal with the possessions of another today, such as lending something that was loaned to you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be realistic in evaluating situations today so you don't interpret them as being more beneficial than they are.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Seot. 22) To get someone else to help you today, you may make some rather lavish promises. Be sure to honor them when they come due.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Manage your resources wisely today. Don't dip into reserves just to cater to extravagant whims. Save what you have for a rainy day.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Make the most of what's offered you today, being wary of attempting last-minute changes. Stick to the original plan.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're a slow starter today and likely to do more talking than work. Avoid lazy companions. They'll add to your problems.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Think twice before making any luxury purchases today. You're still too free with your resources. That's not at all like you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't try to win friends and influence people with bribes or gifts today. You'll earn more respect with a straightforward approach.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You should view things as they are today, not as you'd like them to be. Use your logic instead of depending on hunches.

Opening lead— 10♠

By Oswald & James Jacoby

There are two easy ways to get yourself set at four hearts. The first and simpler method is to cash dummy's ace and king of trumps at tricks two and three. You can ruff one spade, but when you try to get back to dummy, West will get the lead, cash his queen of trumps and leave you one trick short.

The more complicated way is to cash just one trump and dummy's second-high spade. Then you ruff a spade. West will overruff, put his partner in by underleading his ace of clubs and overruff you on the next spade.

A little care will prevent either of these unfortunate things from happening to you. Just lead a club at trick two. The best defense at this point is for the enemy to lead a second club and force dummy. Now you cash one high trump and go after spades. If West overruffs, he can't put his partner in. If he discards, you lead a diamond toward dummy's king and are home with all the marbles.

No-hitter keeps Dons alive

Rob Wicks and Mike Krikorian combined to throw a no-hitter as Amador High School's baseball team kept its East Bay Athletic League hopes alive with an exciting 3-2 victory over visiting California yesterday.

Wicks zeroed the Grizzlies through the final five frames, facing 15 and retiring that many.

With the win, AV moves to 11-3. Cal, meanwhile, plays Monte Vista Friday in a remake. If Cal wins, the Dons play MV Saturday for the title.

Trailing 2-0, the Dons came back with a pair in the fourth before Jeff Terry singled home Mark Bevilacqua with two out in the top half of the seventh.

Bevilacqua followed drawing a walk and promptly stole second base uncontested. After Bill Bevilacqua struck out swinging, Terry starched a Cary 1-2 offering into center field — Bevilacqua scoring from second base.

California jumped on Krikornian for a pair in the second.

With none out, the Grizzlies loaded the bases via a walk to Chuck Cary, a fielders choice to Dan Nelson (Cary beating the infield throw to second), and finally Larry Walters' sinking liner to left field on which Don Straface erred.

Cary scored when Tyler Laurie grounded to the infield, before Krikorian attempted to pick off Nelson at third, and the latter scored on Krikorian's overthrow.

The Dons, who had various opportunities to break through the deadlock, failed by way of poor offensive execution and some excellent defensive measures on the part of Cal.

Both clubs were backed by outstanding defenses for the most part. Amador turned over two double plays and California the same number.

Despite throwing two and two-thirds of one hit relief, Chuck Cary wasn't at his best in this one. He struckout three, walked four and threw a large number of pitches.

Wicks, only a junior, is now 6-0 and one of the prime contenders for All-league honors at his position.

MV beats SR, goes for title

sports

It wasn't spring training. It wasn't even the first game of the season. That's news to Rick Steen.

"The guys thought that it was February out there," said the somber San Ramon High baseball coach after watching cross-town rival Monte Vista bury his troops 11-3 yesterday afternoon.

"We played like we only had four games behind us. We just played bad baseball out there. There isn't too much to say about this one.

"You talk about a long season," he continued, his head looking straight to the ground. "I thought this game took about as long as the season!"

No question there. Monte Vista, playing with their backs to the wall, pounded three San Ramon pitchers for everything they had. When it was over only grim faces told the story.

Jon Arnaudon lasted only two innings and was pummeled for six runs on the same number of hits. Tom Milner was rocked for five more runs, three earned, in just an inning and a third of duty while Jeff Herrmann came in to pick up the pieces. He was touched for just two runs on three hits.

Conclusion: The Mustangs carry big bats.

"I think that it's just the attitude of the ball club," examined Monte Vista co-coach Rich Jones. "We're hitting the ball, playing good fundamental baseball and sound defense."

That's all it takes.

While the East Bay Athletic League season came to a close for San Ramon, 5-8, the Mustangs assured at least a tie for the crown with Amador High. The Dons downed California yesterday 3-2 and will await the outcome of Friday's continuation game between the Grizzlies and Monte Vista. The two teams tied 2-2 in round one of EBAL play.

Time for some mathematics. Should Cal, now 7-5, upset Monte Vista then the Mustangs will return to their home surface for a playoff against the Dons probably on Saturday. The Mustangs are looking for a victory over Cal. If that should occur then the season is history and the Mustangs will have clinched their first ever EBAL title. The Stangs are 11-2 while Amador is just a step back at 11-3.

Back to live action. The Mustangs drilled 12 hits against the platoon of San Ramon pitchers.

Pokes dump Dublin in season finale

In what was at best an anti - climatic win, the Livermore Cowboys defeated host Dublin High School , 8-4, yesterday afternoon in the East Bay Athletic League finale for both clubs.

The Gaels opened the scoring in the last of the first. With one out, Craig Chripotti walked and Sean Mays brought him in with a hit and run double up the alley in right center. The hit might have gone for more bases, but the thick grass in the Dublin outfield held it up.

Mays scored himself when Livermore second-baseman Cary Dean made the first of three errors, throwing the ball away after making a good stop on Jerry Puertas grounder up the middle.

The Cowboys went ahead in the third, scoring four runs, including their only earned run of the game.

Dan Wood led off and lined a twisting single to left. A pair of walks and a two-run single by Pete Fallon combined with a host of Dublin miscues to produce the runs.

Dublin tied it briefly in the last of the third with two unearned runs, accomplished through singles by Larry Castillo and losing pitcher Alan Schaut combined with two 'Poke errors.

Livermore got the winning runs in the top of the fourth. Dean walked and stole second and scored when Wood's low liner to right shot under the glove of Dublin fielder Chariootti for a two-base error.

Scrappy Dave Dearborn, elevated to the number two spot after batting last for the past few weeks, then drove a sacrifice fly to center to score Wood.

The Cowboys' insurance runs came in the sixth. In a no-hit rally barely worth chronicling, Dean and Wood scored after a confusing blend of two walks, two errors, two passed balls and a wild pitch.

Dublin's frustration at the end of a three-win EBAL season was best summed up during a light - hearted sixth-inning incident.

Rich Palmer fouled a 1-2 pitch straight up and the ball became lodged in the screen. After Gael catcher Larry Castillo made one attempt at knocking the ball down by throwing his mask, coach Tom Mullican hurled a fungo bat at the stubborn horsehide.

The ball came down, the bat stayed up. When Charipotti broke his bat grounding out to end the bottom of the sixth, Mullican used the crippled bat in a try to retreive the fungo stick.

It, too, became stuck in the backstop.

Padres nip Giants 7-6

Things are getting so bad for the San Francisco Giants that even their old teammates are taking advantage of them.

Witness Tuesday's 7-6 setback to the San Diego Padres at Candlestick Park before a mini turnout of 1,634 fans. The game went 11 innings.

It appeared Bill Rigney's lads had it locked up with a 6-0 lead going into the seventh and big Ed Halicki working on a four-hit shutout. Then Dame Fortune looked San Diego's way and dealt the Giants their 18th loss in their last 22 outings. San Francisco is 11-23. No other team in the majors has lost more.

Former Giant Tito Fuentes doubled in two Padre runs in the eighth, ex-SF first sacker Willie McCovey doubled in Willie Davis in the seventh. The Giants' No. 2 draft pick in 1970, Butch Metzger, wound up as the winning pitcher. He's now 4-0.

The Padres pushed over two runs in the seventh, two in the eighth and two in the ninth to send it into overtime. Merv Rettenmund, the former Cincinnati handyman celebrated his 33rd birthday on June 6 a bit early by driving a Gary Lavelle offering over the left field barrier for a two-run homer with two out in the ninth.

The Padres got the game winner when Dave Winfield doubled with one away in the 11th off Randy Moffitt. Dave Rader was purposely walked to set up the double play situation with Fred Kendall coming to bat. The Giants almost got out of the inning as Kendall's ground ball was gobbled up by shortstop Chris Speier and relayed to second baseman Derrell Thomas for the force on Rader but the throw to first arrived late and Winfield was also safe at home on Willie Montanez' subsequent throw.

Rigney protested to no avail that Rader had interfered with Thomas at second. Rader told reporters, "I went over the bag, the Giants just didn't make the double play." Rigney was fit to be tied.

You can't blame the Alamo resident. He observed, "Things just seem to go from bad to worse." And tonight the Big Red Machine moves in for a two - game series. John (The Count) Montefusco will attempt to beat the World Champions a second time this season. Strangely enough, San Francisco holds a 2-1 edge on the Rhinelanders.

Rettenmund, feasting on some post-game chicken, emphasized, "I wasn't thinking home run when I went up to pinch hit. I just wanted to make contact I hit a fast ball. Lavelle is tough, you have to be ahead of him in the count to get any advantage."

An error by left fielder Gary Matthews on Rader's fly ball with one away in the ninth gave Rettenmund the opportunity to stroke his first homer of the 1976 season. He hit only two a year ago.

The Giants got two runs in the fourth when Kenny Reitz' single up the middle brought home Speier and Montanez. San Francisco lit up the scoreboard for four runs in the sixth and the tiny crowd began to savor free burgers. Ticket holders were told they would be rewarded if San Francisco won the game.

No such luck! In that Giant sixth, Matthews walked and trotted in on Bobby Murcer's triple. Speier's single brought home Murcer. Montanez tripled bringing Chris in. Mike Sadek laid down a squeeze bunt and Montanez came across, 6-0, SF. No sweat? Right? Wrong.

Rigney did see a glimmer of hope in all the bitterness of defeat. "The big kid pitched good and we were swinging the bats better." Matthews had a first - inning triple, giving the Giants three for the day.

Girls' softball

AV girls breeze

Amador's top - notched girls softball team continued its three - year domination of the East Bay Athletic League title yesterday as the Dons trounced Foothill 19-5 to finish their third undefeated season.

The Amador club is now 10-0 in league action while Foothill grabbed a tie with California for third place with a 4-6 mark. Deanna Marengo threw a six - hitter against the Falcons while Jayne Kuhns belted her sixth home run of the season in the rout.

Foothill jumped ahead in the first frame, 4-1 as Cheryl Eldred blasted a three - run homer, but an eight - run rally by the Dons in the second stanza put the Foothill club out of action. Amador scored 10 runs in the final two innings to put the game out of reach.

Hitting seemed to be the key for the purple - and - gold as Kuhns and Debbie Oxsen each went three for four at the plate and combined for eight RBI's. The Dons pounded out 16 hits en route to the victory as Sheryl Withoft and Carolyn Fleischer added their share with two for four performances.

Dublin clinched second place in the league by downing California 19-5 in their EBAL finale. Talented pitcher. Gail Willard, who is said to be one of the best pitchers in the East Bay, hurled a career high 16 strikeouts to lift the Gaels over California.

Willard has fanned an overwelming 148 batters in 100 innings of play for an outstanding mound career.

Dublin's powerful bats pounded oout 16 hits in in the effort as Jona Smith smashed a key double for three RBI's and Deanna Galant turned in a three for four performance and brought in four runs to pace the Gaels.

The Grizzlies managed their five runs in the fourth frame but Dublin scored 15 runs in the fourth, fifth and six innings to put the game on ice.

"We had a good team," commented Dublin coach Tim Peck, "and we had a great year." he added.

The Dublin squad wound up with a 7-3 league record and an impressive 13-3 overall mark which included some tough wins over such teams as Skyline and Castro Valley.

Rushing's HR's spark Mats

Vance Rushing turned Granada's claustrophobic baseball park into a home run haven yesterday, ripping two round-trippers while going five-for-five at the plate, as Granada closed its East Bay Athletic League season with a hardy 16-1 swamp of listless Foothill.

With the victory Granada finished the season at 6-6-2, but the Mats have come through in the past two games as if they were intangible.

"This league is so balanced. There is little or no difference between the bottom and the top," Granada coach Dennis Berger said in the midst of his team's slump two weeks ago. Yesterday's game proved that statement as the Mats knocked off a young Foothill team that had played Amador even for nearly two games.

Almost lost in the crowd was a masterful pitching performance from Steve Stone. Working quicker and with more speed as the game progessed. The senior right - hander wiffed 13 Falcons and lost his shutout with two out in the ninth inning on a bloop single by Pat Geck.

Early in the inning Stone had walked Barry Kortan and Chris Nevas, his only walks of the game.

Rushing, meanwhile raised his home run total to four and iust barely missed his third homer. The bulky junior hit the ball off the left-field fence for the first of his two doubles. His second two-bagger was a ground rule double that hopped over the left-field fence. He also had seven RBI's, a season and EBAL high.

Dennis Lehew and Bill Jespersen also collected three hits apiece. Lehew had a lead-off homer and a double while Jespersen had three singles and two RBI's.

In the marathon fifth inning Granada sent 13 men to the plate and scored eight runs off reliever Mike Krikorian.

Earlier in the day the Mats chased starter Pat Driver from the mound in the first inning. Driver went just ⅓ of an inning as the Mats sent 10 to the box in that frame.

Rick Rosenbach was the only Falcon to hurler to hold the Mats scoreless. Rosenbach relieved Krikorian in the fifth and held the Mats in check thereafter.

Foothill coach Rick Boschetti will field almost the same team next year when the Falcons try to improve on this years' dismal 1-13 mark. The only win for the Falcons came against Dublin early in the season.

Gymnast, sprinter Flecto winners

Stu Dohmier of Irvington High School and Pittsburg's Vic Trapps are the winners of this week's final Flecto Sports Award, selected by the East Bay Prep Writers Association.

Dohmier, a senior gymnast, won six of the seven events at the Northern California championships at Skyline High over the weekend to take the Alameda County award. His victories in the floor exercise, pommel horse, vaulting, rings and high bar, coupled with a second in the parallel bars gave him the all-around championship.

He beat out Livermore swimmer Paul Lohmann, Granada's record-setting track star Diana Stohr and Castro Valley tennis player Glen Teixeira for the honor.

Trapps dashed to a 9.7 clocking in the 100 yard dash at the Diablo Valley Athletic League track meet to tie the event record and also set a meet standard in the 220, sailing in in 21.7.

Davitt Cunningham, who sparkled at the frosh-soph portion of the North Coast Section swim meet and Carol Dolsby, the East Bay's best girl shot-putter — she set an EBAL mark of 40-1 at the league meet — were also nominated.

Cubs' bats hot in easy win

The Tri-Valley Cubs, playing away from home as usual, won a pair of semi-pro baseball games Sunday in San Francisco.

The Cubs, with John Prieto striking out seven on his way to a two-hitter, first defeated the San Francisco Spiders, 11-1, then came back to beat the San Francisco Senators, 9-2.

Bob Moore had three hits, including a home run in the opener and came back for three more safties in the second game.

Steve Edwards got the win in the nightcap, also hurling a twohitter. Brian Billy homered in that one as Jim McCuaig added a trio of hits.

This weekend the Cubs face a pair of doubleheaders. Saturday, they'll try to improve upon a 3-4 record against the San Francisco Hawks, an all-Japanese/ American team. Sunday, Tri-Valley plays the Big G, another San Francisco club.

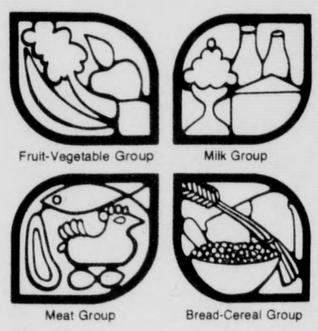
"Know Your Food"

YOUR FOOD GUIDE*



Here is the first in a five-part weekly series on Food for Fitness — a Daily Food Guide.* It explains our need for different nutrients. The Basic Four Food Groups, briefly outlined here, will be fully detailed in four subsequent columns in Safeway ads. We suggest you clip this series to keep handy for nutritional meal planning.

HOW TO USE THIS GUIDE

Each day our food should supply us with many different nutrients —

- Protein for growth and for repair of the body.
- Minerals and vitamins for growth and to keep the body functioning properly.
- Fat and carbohydrates for energy.

Most foods contain more than one nutrient, but no single food contains all the nutrients in the amounts needed. Thus, we need a variety of foods each day.

This Food Guide shows one way to choose foods wisely each day. In the Guide foods are sorted into groups. Choices within groups are wide enough to allow for a variety of foods.

Select the main part of your diet from the four broad food groups. Add other foods as needed to make meals more appealing.

Some pointers to guide you in using this plan:

Choose at least the minimum number of servings from each of the broad food groups.

Serving sizes may differ — small for young children, extra large (or seconds) for very active adults or teenagers. Pregnant and nursing women also require more food from these groups.

Make choices within each group according to suggestions given. Foods within each group are similar, but not identical, in food value.

Choose additional foods to round out meals both from foods in the four groups and from foods not listed in these groups. These additional foods should add enough calories to complete your food energy needs for the day. Children need enough food energy to support normal growth; adults need enough to maintain body weight at a level most favorable to health and well-being.

Try to have some meat, poultry, fish, eggs, or milk at each meal.

OTHER FOODS

To round out meals and meet energy needs, almost everyone will use some foods not specified in the four food groups. Such foods include sugars, butter, margarine, other fats. These often are ingredients in a recipe, or are added to other foods during preparation or at the table.

Try to include some vegetable oil among the fats used.

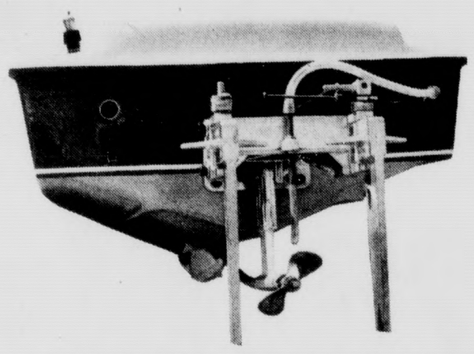
Model racers stir up Shadow Cliffs

One boater uses a cord to start his machine to check the fuel mixture prior to a race in Saturday's competition.



This close-up shot of the boat's stern shows the intricate machining and workmanship practiced by experienced boaters.

After successfully starting his racer, one competitor gives his monoplane an extra push to get it going strong.

Modelers gather to show and race

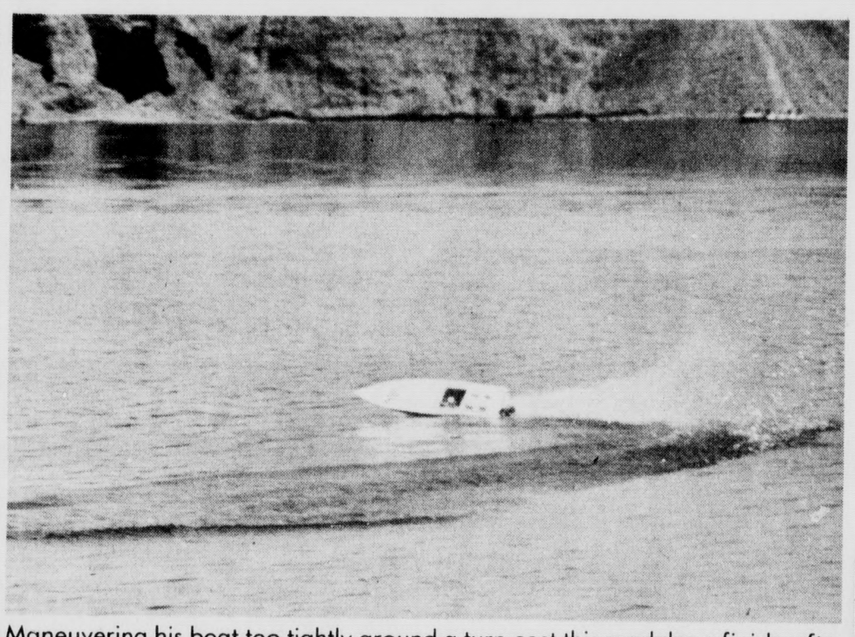
PLEASANTON — Radio - controlled model boats whizzed around Shadow Cliffs lake last Saturday, providing an exciting show for the bronzed sun-worshippers present to enjoy the warm weather.

Modelers directed their works of art around a series of pylons anchored in the lake using radio - controlled transmitters to propel them up to 80 mph. Monoplanes, pictured on this page, reach 55 mph while their hydroplane counterparts hit the higher speeds.

No child's sport this, since many modelers spend hundreds and sometimes thousands of dollars getting into the sport. All are meticulous craftsmen, taking the greatest care to make sure their boats are in tip-top shape, both for race and show.

Enthusiasts from as far away as Hawaii, Washington and Arizona took part in the weekend races, delighting spectators on all parts of the lake.

The rescue boat goes out after each race and picks up boats stranded because of mechanical failure, water-clogged parts, or — the most frustrating — simply running out of gas.



Maneuvering his boat too tightly around a turn cost this modeler a finish, after water spilled into his craft and flooded the radio receiving mechanisms.

After launching their prize boats, modelers stand on a picnic table to direct the "monos" around the pylons. Most boaters use a control box with two joysticks, each controlling a different function. Some units can control up to five different radio-controlled switches allowing greater flexibility in operation.

Payment bill moves in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed without debate Tuesday a bill providing for payment of $1,250,000 to the family of an Army chemist who committed suicide after being given LSD without his knowledge in a CIA drug experiment.

Dr. Frank R. Olson jumped to his death from a New York City hotel room window in 1953.

Three days earlier, Olson, an Army chemist engaged in research at Ft. Detrick, Md., was slipped LSD at a meeting.

His death was described to his family as an unexplained suicide. It was not until 22 years later with publication of the Rockefeller Commission report on the CIA that the family learned the true circumstances.

The bill to compensate Mrs. Olson and her three children of Frederick, Md., was filed by Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md., who said it had the support of President Ford and the Justice Department.

The bill now goes to the House.

Reached at the family home in Frederick, Md., Lisa Olson, Frank Olson's daughter, said the family preferred not to comment on Senate passage of the bill.

Ann Landers
In the best of families

Dear Ann: I want to thank you for speaking out on the problem of incest. I've tried to alert as many mothers as possible to this growing menace but it's a delicate subject.

Some women are horrified but agree the problem should be faced squarely. Others turn red and change the subject. A few have told me I have a filthy mind and such things happen only in "poor, low-class families."

One woman asked what I would do if my daughter was molested or sexually assaulted by a relative. I replied, "First, I'd attempt to find out from the child precisely what happened. Second, I'd call the family doctor and have the child examined. Then I'd call the police and get the dirty rat out of the house for good. After that I'd phone all the members of the family and warn them to keep their children away from that rotten animal if he should turn up."

Thank you for having the courage to deal with such frank material in your column, Ann. You do a wonderful service. — Color Me Grateful

Dear Grateful: Every mother should be alerted to the possibility of incest because it happens in the best of families.

Rather than call the police, however, I suggest a straightforward talk with the man and give him an alternative — psychiatric help or arrest. I would then make sure he is never left alone with children. Next I'd instruct the children to report any out-of-the-way behavior — and I'd be very explicit in describing what "out-of-the-way behavior" is. A second offense would mean packed clothes and a closed door.

Dear Ann Landers: I need someone to tell me what to do. I hope you can help. There isn't anyone I can talk to around here.

About a year ago I met a widower. We became close friends. After a very short time he became ill. I promised him when we started to go together that if anything happened to him I would stay at his side and take care of him.

I was his constant companion, nurse, cook, housekeeper and friend, until he passed away 10 days ago.

When I learned I was not even mentioned in his will I was shocked and hurt. His children got everything.

Don't you think I am entitled to be paid for 10 months of very hard work? What should I do? Does a person like me have any legal rights? If so, what are they? — True Friend Cheated

Dear Friend: You need a lawyer, not Ann Landers. If you can't afford the regular fees, call Legal Aid.

"When you're sick or hurt and can't work, your car payments don't stop."

Prosecution measure gets City Council approval

PLEASANTON — The city council approved an endorsement of Senate Bill 1401 last week by a 4-1 vote.

The bill, if enacted into law, would remove the city attorney from the responsibility of prosecuting city council members if they violated any of the provisions of the Proposition 9 campaign contribution reporting law.

Councilman William Herlihy voted against the endorsement. He felt that giving the prosecution power to another level of government, for example, the district attorney or the state attorney general, would be "releasing local control." He added, "We should not let someone else solve our problems."

City Attorney Ken Scheidig told the council that if the "conflict of interest" were not removed, it would place a city attorney in "the unenviable position of prosecuting his own bad advice. It's not the best way to retain a job."
